

ITP Zhuhai Airport Study Tour

Zhuhai Airport starts its operation in 1995. It is designed to cater for 100,000 aircraft take-off and landing annually, with a passenger throughput of 11 million, and cargo & mail throughput of 600,000 tons, peaking at 23 flights and passenger throughput of 6,000 per hour.

Twenty-three airlines are currently operating at Zhuhai Airport, including China Southern Airlines, China International Airlines, and China Eastern Airlines. Together the network serves over forty inland cities.

Favorably located in the Greater Bay Area, Zhuhai Airport is set to provide a fast transit and service platform for free travel population for over 200 million passengers in major cities in China.

The Zhuhai Airport operation sets a good model of management and professional expertise collaboration between Hong Kong and the Mainland. Its experience can be of great reference value for the “One Belt-One Road” mission, and opportunity enlightenment for Hong Kong people.

ITP is most pleased that it has secured a rare opportunity for visiting this airport, viewing its various facilities (including some normally restricted areas), and interacting with its HR team on people training & development views and practices.
